

NEWVILLE HAS MAD DOG SCARE

Horses, Cows, Men and Two Girls Have Been Bitten.

SENT TO CHICAGO

Big Subscription by County Board, To Be Treated—Scare at Milton.

FEAR OF MORE CASES

Three Rock Rock county people are now taking treatment at the Pasteur Institute in Chicago sent there by the bites of a dog supposed to be afflicted with the rabies. The afflicted ones are Ben Cooper of Newville and two girls nine and seven years old, one a daughter of Herman Husen, of Newville, and the other a daughter of August Welsan of the same place. Cooper is already in Chicago and the two girls left Edgerton on the 10 o'clock train Friday morning for the city in charge of Dr. McManus, of Edgerton, to undergo treatment.

The dog that caused all of this trouble was the property of Cooper and had the attack of the rabies early in the year. At that time he bit Cooper and the two girls and also bit five cows and a horse. The cows belonged to Cooper and the horse to Welsan. Nothing was thought of the matter at the time, although the dog was killed on account of its biting the people and the cattle.

Cows Stricken First
One of the cows was recently taken sick and on account of its peculiar actions State Veterinarian E. D. Roberts was called to examine it. He at once pronounced it a case of the rabies and ordered the cow killed which was done. From time to time thereafter, other of these five cows that were bitten by the dog, came down with the same disease and were killed by order of the state veterinarian. The last one of the cows was taken with the disease last Sunday and became so violent that it was hard to keep it in the barn in which it was tied.

A Dangerous Animal
It bit at everything within reach and tried to knock down the building with its horns. Dr. Roberts was called on Monday morning and killed the animal, after he had been driven out of the barn several times while attempting to shoot it. He finally got around near the front of the stall and as the animal rushed toward him shot it in the head, killing it.

The horse that was bitten by the dog did not show any symptoms of the disease until within the last few days. It finally became so vicious that Dr. Roberts went to Newville yesterday afternoon and killed him. After the horse and cattle had come down with the disease the people who had been bitten by the dog became frightened, although none of them had shown any signs of rabies and about a week ago Cooper, who was worried over the matter, went to Chicago and entered the Pasteur Institute for treatment and is still there.

Weslan Girl Sent
They are one of the two little girls are both in straitened circumstances and did not have the money to send them to Chicago for treatment. The residents of the village of Newville took the matter in hand and started a subscription paper among the people of the town of Milton, and also among the residents of the town of Fulton and the City of Edgerton. In this way they raised money enough to defray the expenses of the Weslan girl, while at the Institute.

The matter of the Husen girl was brought before the Rock County Board of Supervisors at their meeting held in this city yesterday and Supt. of Poor Kenyon was instructed to use not to exceed $125 of the funds in his hands to defray the expenses of the treatment of the Husen girl at the Institute. The services of Dr. McManus of Edgerton were secured and Friday morning he left for Chicago with the two girls in his charge.

Newville Excited
Newville is much stirred up over the mad dog scare and any dog that is seen acting suspiciously is at once chased and shot. It was only Thursday morning that a dog supposed to be mad was seen going through the town of Milton. He was snapping and biting at everything in sight and was finally located in a field when he was shot and killed by Calvin Hull of Milton Junction. It is supposed that Cooper's dog bit several other dogs at the time it went mad, and that the disease did not affect them until the warm weather set in.

Dr. Roberts is authority for the statement that there are more cases of rabies among the horses, cattle and sheep in this state than was ever before known. It has almost reached an epidemic and he is kept going day and night looking after diseases of this character. He is hindered considerably in stamping out the disease by the people owning the animals. They know the animals will be killed by the veterinarian and keep it quiet as long as they can. In the meantime the animals get out, bite other animals and the disease spreads, so that it is almost impossible to stamp it out.

ORDERS THE BRITISH TO ABANDON CAMP

Mule Purchases May Be Made in a Scattering Way, But Military Post Must Close.

New Orleans, May 30.—It is understood that the United States state department has told the British war department that it must discontinue supporting a formal military camp in the United States and must make all future mule purchases in a scattering way as if doing an ordinary shipping business.

In short, the appearance of an army commissariat must be eliminated. No credence is placed in the peace reports from south Africa. The Boers have more men in the field now than ever before and are in a position to dictate terms.

It is said that the alleged terms of agreement as given out by the British are really not those under discussion, but are garbled reports soothing to British pride.

To Open Camp at Toronto.

Lathrop, Mo., May 30.—The British remount commission, which has been operating here this year supplying horses and mules for the south African service, is being abandoned by the officers and men. It is understood the commission will establish a new location at Toronto, Canada.

WOMAN HORSEWHIPS A DOCTOR

Takes Revenge for Alleged Derogatory Statements by Physician.

Dublin, Ind., May 30.—Mrs. Henry Sparks, wife of a saloonkeeper at Markle, a little town in Wells county, publicly horsewhipped Dr. J. R. Zimmerman in the postoffice lobby at that town. She said the whipping was punishment for statements Dr. Zimmerman is alleged to have made about Mrs. Sparks. Mrs. Sparks went to the postoffice flourishing a rawhide. In the postoffice waiting for the 7:30 mail Mrs. Sparks found the doctor.

"Now I have you right where I want you," she said. She belabored the doctor with the rawhide until her strength was exhausted. Most of the blows fell on the physician's head, although he tried to dodge the whip.

SAFE AT COTTON MILL IS ROBBED

Money Drawer Smashed Open and $15 Stolen Early Yesterday Afternoon.

The safe at the upper cotton mill was robbed yesterday afternoon in broad daylight, during the temporary absence of the secretary, A. J. Ray. Fifteen dollars in money was secured. The robbery was a bold one. About two o'clock Mr. Ray left the office to go into the factory. He was gone only a short time and left the safe open with the money drawer locked. In his absence some one entered the office, forced the money drawer open with a wedge and escaped with the funds. The steel money drawer was smashed. Although the mill is not running, there is considerable business transacted at the office which accounts for the presence of the money in the safe.

GOVERNOR'S ACTS ARE EXPOSED

Whitehead Explains Attack on the Legislature as an Imperial Step.

INSULT TO STATE

Abused the Senate Without Any Cause or Just Provocation.

THE CLOSING LETTER

State Senator John M. Whitehead gives to the readers of The Gazette another of his letters on the Primary Election Bill and the abuses to which it might have brought the politics of the state. This letter is the last of the primary series and deals exclusively with the rejection of the Hagemaster bill by the governor and that worthy's insulting letter to the senate when he sent the bill back vetoed.

He says:

Janesville, Wis., May 30, 1902.

To The Gazette:

On the 10th of May, the governor returned the Hagemaster bill to the Senate, with a message which occupied little over nine pages of the Senate Journal. His introduction was as follows:

"The history of the effort to secure a primary election law in this state, the character of the opposition, and the means employed to defeat it, demand a permanent place in the legislative record of this session. It is therefore from a controlling sense of obligation that I submit the following in connection with specific reasons for interposing the executive veto to prevent this bill from becoming a law."

The message then gave a resume of the arguments which had been made before the committees of the Legislature and upon the floors of both houses. In favor of the system of primary election, provided for in the Substitute bill which the Senate had rejected. He reiterated the pledge of the Republican State Convention of 1900, and asserted its meaning to be as follows:

1. The abolition of nominations by caucus and convention.
2. That every voter shall vote directly for the candidates of his choice at a primary election.
3. That all candidates for state, legislative, congressional, and county offices shall be nominated by direct vote at a primary election under the Australian ballot.

He then addressed himself to the Senate in a manner, the spirit and temper of which are fairly illustrated by the following:

"Immediately upon the organization of the legislature, many weeks before any bill was offered upon the subject of primary election, it was boastfully announced that one of its branches had been so organized as to defeat the passage of any primary election legislation."

"Before the introduction of the primary election bill an attempt was made to arouse distrust concerning it, and to thoroughly discredit the measure in advance. Upon its presentation to the legislature, so framed as to comply with the pledge made to the people of the state, a systematic campaign of misrepresentation of the bill and its supporters was industriously prosecuted. The general purpose of the measure, the plain meaning of its provisions, the certain effect of the law in operation, the necessary and reasonable expense, each and all furnished theme for persistent falsification and malicious assault. An array of federal officeholders, joining with certain corporation agents and the representatives of the machine in the regular legislative lobby, moved upon the capitol, took possession of its corridors, intruded into the legislative halls, followed members to their hotels, tempted many with alluring forms of vice and in some instances brought them to the capitol in a state of intoxication to vote against the bill. This sets forth in part the character of the opposition, but omits to take account of some of the means used, and attempted to be used, to prevent the passage of the measure."

"I cannot divest myself of the binding character of my official obligation, not in any narrow partisan sense, but to all the people of the state, which forbids my sharing in the responsibility of giving them a law which violates that obligation, and is manifestly so framed as to bring reproach upon the principle, even if it were at all possible to interpret or enforce it."

The Constitution authorized the Governor to return a bill if he did not approve it, to the house in which it originated, as, in this case, to the Senate, with his objections. These objections were to be in the contemplation of the Constitution, to the measure and not to the members of the house to which the message was sent, nor to individuals not members. The Legislature had been elected by the people, and it was responsible to the people. The people, from the adoption of the Constitution had spoken their will through the Senate and Assembly. They had written in the Constitution:

"The legislative power shall be vested in a Senate and Assembly."

"The style of the laws of the State shall be: The people of the State of Wisconsin represented in Senate and Assembly."

OFFICIAL IS KILLED IN RAILROAD WRECK

E. J. Blake, General Consulting Engineer of the Burlington System, Meets Death.

La Crosse, Wis., May 30.—Trapped inside a patent combination engine and car, five Burlington railway officials were mangled and torn at Alma. One was killed, two probably fatally hurt and two seriously injured. The patent car was standing on a siding, a gravel train rushed through the open switch, crashed into the engine and car, and buried the five officials under the tangled mass of iron and wood.

The dead: E. J. Blake. The injured: J. D. Bessler, W. T. Breckenridge, D. C. Cunningham, W. B. Purdy.

The officials composing the party left here in the Burlington inspection car to go over its line where improvements to the roadbed were being made.

At Alma a new patent combination engine and car for unloading gravel trains was at work and the party decided to inspect it. This car is open from the rear and a narrow passageway, just wide enough to admit one man and six feet long, leads into its engine room.

The official party, headed by Superintendent Cunningham, entered this hallway in single file. At that moment a south-bound gravel train from Pepin, heavily loaded and running at full speed, shot into the switch from around the curve and struck the machine car. The impact wrecked the machine car, derailed five cars to the rear, all of which were piled up in confusion on the track. Fireman Web Russell and Engineer Larson, both of La Crosse, jumped after the engine was reversed.

The big engine was wrecked, but did not leave the track. A large force of men was soon at work taking out the injured, and all were removed to a coach.

PEACE AND FREEDOM

Washington, D. C., May 30.—Across the Potomac in the quiet resting place of the heroes of America's six wars, Revolutionary War of 1812, Mexican War of the Rebellion, the Spanish and Philippine wars, President Roosevelt in this afternoon delivering a Decoration Day address to thousands of people.

For the first time in many years the president of the United States is in person delivering an eulogy to a departed hero of this country. He is sounding the key note of the country's prosperity—peace and freedom.

His speech is the dwelling upon the coming of the North and South together in one common cause. He is telling the story of the soldiers' lives in the far-off Philippines and commending their actions in the cause of peace and freedom to benighted people.

He says:

"It is a good custom for our country to have certain solemn holidays in commemoration of our greatest men and of the greatest crisis in our history. There should be but few such holidays. To increase their number is to cheapen them. Washington and Lincoln—the man who did most to found the Union, and the man who did most to preserve it—stand head and shoulders above all other public men, and have by common consent won the right to this preeminence. Among the holidays which commemorate the turning points in American history, Thanksgiving has a significance peculiarly its own. On July 4 we celebrate the birth of the nation on this day, the 30th of May, we call to mind the deaths of those who died that the nation might live, who waged all that life holds dear for the great prize of death in battle, who poured out their blood like water in order that the mighty national structure raised by the far-seeing patriotism of Washington, Franklin, Marshall, Hamilton, and the other great leaders of the Revolution, great framers of the Constitution, should not crumble into meaningless ruins. You whom I address today and your comrades who wore the blue beside you in the perilous years during which strong, sad, patient Lincoln bore the crushing load of national leadership, performed the one feat that failure to perform which would have meant destruction to everything which makes the name of America a symbol among the nations of mankind. You did the greatest and most necessary task which has ever fallen to the lot of any men on this western hemisphere. Nearly three centuries have passed since the waters of our coasts were first furrowed by the keels of the men whose children's children were to inherit this fair land. Over a century and a half of colonial growth followed the settlement, and now for a century and a quarter we have been a nation.

During our four generations of national life we have had to do tasks, and some of them far-reaching importance; but the only really vital task was the one you did, the task of saving the Union. There were other crises in which to have gone wrong would have meant disaster; but this was the one crisis in which to have gone wrong, would have meant not merely disaster, but annihilation. For failure at any other point atonement could have been made; but had you failed in the Iron days the loss would have been irreparable, the defeat irremediable. Upon your success depended all the future of the people on this continent, much of the future of mankind as a whole. You left us a reunited country. You left us the right of brotherhood with the men in gray, who with such courage, and such devotion, for what they deemed the right, fought against you. But you left us much more even than your achievements, for you left us the memory of how it was achieved. You, who made good by your valor and patriotism the statesmanship of Lincoln and the soldierly of Grant, have set as the standards for our efforts in the future both the way you did your work in war and the way in which when the war was over you turned again to the work of peace. In war and in peace alike your example will stand as the wisest lesson to us and our children and our children's children.

Just at this moment the army of the United States, led by men who served among you in the great war, is carrying to completion a small but peculiarly trying and difficult war in which is involved not only the honor of the flag but the triumph of civilization over forces which stand for the black chaos of savagery and barbarism. The task has not been as difficult or as important as yours, but, oh, my comrades, the men in the uniform of the United States, who have for the last three years patiently

A Correction.

To The Editor: May we correct the misrepresentations made by the Gazette, in saying the forty-seven voters of Milton were backing the honored Mayor of Janesville, against our able congressman, Mr. Cooper?

While the republicans of Milton all respect Mayor Richardson, we know not of one, who is or has been disposed not to support Mr. Cooper.

As for us; we had more to do with introducing Mr. Cooper to the people of Rock county, (who gave him his office), than any man living; and we are not aware of his shaking his millions on serving his constituents.

As regards our governor, who has stood and still stands by the platform on which he was elected; the republicans of Milton cannot all be led to repudiate him, for the sake of rewarding never so noble a Rock County gentleman, who was led to repudiate the platform of his party, for the sake of an office.

SCHOOLS COMPETE FOR A BANNER

Twilight Club Offers a Banner for the Best Kept School Grounds.

The committee appointed by the Twilight club to award the banner to the school making the greatest improvement in school yard decoration and the $10 prize to the janitor of that school visited every school yard in the city yesterday to estimate the condition of the yards before the summer improvements were begun.

The committee consists of the Rev. Robert C. Denton, George F. Kimball and Francis C. Grant. They were accompanied by Supt. H. C. Buell and allowance was made for the fact that the improvements this year have many of them been made.

Care was taken by the committee to ascertain the exact condition of the grounds before any work was done this spring. The committee will visit the schools again next fall and award the prizes. The banner is now held by the Adams school.

STORY TESTIMONIAL.

Bloomfield, Iowa, December 5, 1900. On the tenth day of September I called at Doctor Gilbert's office and began treatment. I had been bothered with a complication of troubles for over fifteen years. I could not ride any distance at all without vomiting violently. My bowels were constipated, kidneys inactive and there was a catarrhal condition of head, throat and whole alimentary canal. After twenty-one treatments, I can ride and feel well and strong in every way. Osteopathy has done more for me in twenty-one treatments than all the doctors I have done for twenty-five years and I think it is indeed a wonderful science.

Respectfully,

ROOSEVELT TALKS TO OLD SOLDIERS

He Tells of the Philippine War and the Soldiers' Hard Time
There.

and uncomplainingly championed the American cause in the Philippine Islands, are your younger brothers, your sons. They have shown themselves not unworthy of you, and they are entitled to the support of all men who are proud of what you did.

These younger comrades of yours have fought under terrible difficulties and have received terrible provocation from a very cruel and very treacherous enemy. Under the strain of these provocations I deeply deplore that some among them have so far forgotten themselves, as to counsel and commit, in retaliation, acts of cruelty. The fact that for every guilty act committed by one of our troops a hundred acts of far greater atrocity have been committed by the hostile natives upon our troops, or upon the peaceable and law-abiding natives who are friendly to us, cannot be held to excuse any wrongdoer on our side. Determined and unswerving effort must be made, and is being made, to find out every instance of barbarity on the part of our troops, to punish those guilty of it, and to take, if possible, even stronger than sure than have already been taken to minimize or prevent the occurrence of all such instances in the future.

From time to time there occur in our country, to the deep and lasting shame of our people, lynchings carried on under circumstances of inhuman cruelty and barbarity—cruelty infinitely worse than any that has ever been committed by our troops in the Philippines; worse to the victims, and far more brutalizing to those guilty of it. The men who fall to condemn these lynchings and yet clamor about what has been done in the Philippines, are indeed guilty of neglecting the beam in their own eye while taunting their brother about the mote in his. Understand me, these lynchings afford us no excuse for failure to stop cruelty in the Philippines. Every effort is being made, and will be made to minimize the chances of cruelty occurring.

But keep in mind that these cruelties in the Philippines have been wholly exceptional, and have been shamelessly exaggerated. We deeply and bitterly regret that any such cruelties should have been committed, no matter how rarely, no matter under what provocation, by American troops. But they afford far less justification for a general condemnation of our army than these lynchings afford for the condemnation of the communities in which they have taken place. In each case it is well to condemn the deed, and it is well also to refrain from including both guilty and innocent in the same sweeping denunciation.

In every community there are people who commit acts of well-nigh inconceivable horror and baseness. If we fix our eyes only upon these individuals and upon their acts, and if we forget the far more numerous citizens of upright and honest life, and blind ourselves to their countless deeds of wisdom and justice and philanthropy, it is easy enough to condemn the community. There is not a city in this land which we could not thus condemn if we fixed our eyes purely upon its police record and refused to look at what it had accomplished for decency and justice and charity. Yet this is exactly the attitude which has been taken by too many men with reference to our army in the Philippines; and it is an attitude both absurd and cruelly unjust.

The rules of warfare which have been promulgated by the War Department and accepted as the basis of conduct by our troops in the field are the rules laid down by Abraham Lincoln when you, my hearers, were fighting for the Union. These rules provide, of course, for the just severity necessary in war. The most destructive of all forms of cruelty would be to show weakness where sternness is demanded by iron heel. But all cruelty is forbidden, and all harshness beyond what is called for by need. Our enemies in the Philippines have not merely violated every rule of war, but have made of these violations their only method of carrying on the war. We would have been justified by Abraham Lincoln's rules of war in infinitely greater severity than has been shown.

The fact really is that our warfare in the Philippines has been carried on with singular humanity. For every act of cruelty by our men there have been innumerable acts of forbearance, magnanimity, and generous kindness. These are the qualities which have characterized the war as a whole. The cruelties have been wholly exceptional, on our part.

The guilty are to be punished; but in punishing them, let those who sit at ease at home, who walk delicately and live in the soft places of the earth remember also to do common justice. Let not the effortless and the untamed rail overmuch at strong men who with blood and sweat face years of toil and days and nights of agony, and at need lay down their lives in remote jungles to bring the light of civilization in the world's dark places. The warfare that has extended the boundaries of civilization at the expense of barbarism and savagery has been for centuries one of the most potent factors in the progress of humanity. Yet from its very nature it has always and everywhere been liable to dark abuses.

It behooves us to keep a vigilant watch to prevent these abuses and to punish those who commit them; but if because of them we flinch from finishing the task on which we have entered, we show ourselves craven and weaklings, unworthy of the sires from whose loins we sprang. There were abuses and to spare in the civil war. Your false friends then called Grant a "butcher" and spoke of you who are listening to me as mercenaries, as "Lincoln's hirelings." Your open foes—as in the resolution passed by the Confederate congress in October, 1862—accused you, at great length and with much particularity, of "contemptuous disregard of the usages of civilized war," of subjecting women and children to "banishment, imprisonment, and death," of "murder," of "rapine," of "outrages on women," of "lawless cruelty," of perpetrating atrocities which would be disgraceful to savages; and Abraham Lincoln was singled out for especial attack because of his "spirit of barbarous ferocity." Verily, these men who thus foully slandered you have their heirs today in those who traduce our armies in the Philippines, who fix their eyes on individual deeds of wrong so keenly that at last they become blind to the great work of peace and freedom that has already been accomplished.

Peace and freedom—are there two better objects for which a soldier can fight? Well, these are precisely the two objects for which our soldiers are fighting in the Philippines. When there is talk of the cruelties committed in the Philippines, remember always that by far the greater proportion of these cruelties have been committed by the insurgents against their own people—as well as against our soldiers—and that not only the surest but the only effectual way of stopping them is by the progress of the American arms.

The victories of the American army have been the really effective means of stopping the cruelty in the Philippines. Wherever these victories have been complete and such is now the case throughout the greater part of the islands—all cruelties have ceased, and the native is secure in his life, his liberty, and his pursuit of happiness. Where the insurrection still smolders there is always a chance for cruelty to show itself.

Our soldiers conquer; and what is the object for which they conquer? To establish a military government? No. The laws we are now endeavoring to enact for the government of the Philippines are to increase the power and domain of the civil at the expense of the military authorities, and to render even more difficult than in the past the chance of oppression. The order that it may itself remain. The military power is used to secure peace, in order that it may itself be supplanted by civil government. The progress of the American arms means the abolition of cruelty, the bringing of peace, and the rule of law and order under the civil government. Other nations have conquered to create irresponsible military rule. We conquer to bring just and responsible civil government to the conquered.

But our armies do more than bring peace, do more than bring order. They bring freedom. Remember always that the independence of a tribe or a community may, and often does, have nothing to do with the freedom of the individual in that tribe or community. There are now in Asia and Africa scores of despotic monarchies, each of which is independent, and in no one of which is there the slightest vestige of freedom for the individual man. Scant indeed is the gain to mankind from the "independence" of a blood-stained tyrant who rules over abject and brutalized slaves. But great is the gain to humanity which follows the steady though slow introduction of the orderly liberty, the law-abiding freedom of the individual, which is the only sure foundation upon which national independence can be built. Wherever in the Philippines the insurrection has been definitely and finally put down, there the individual Filipino already enjoys such freedom, such personal liberty, under our rule, as he could never even dream of under the rule of an "Independent" Agnildan oligarchy.

The slowly learned and difficult art of self-government, an art which our people have taught themselves by the labor of a thousand years, can not be grasped in a day by a people only just emerging from conditions of life which our ancestors left behind them in the dim years before history dawned. We believe that we can rapidly teach the people of the Philippine Islands, not only how to enjoy, but how to make good use of their freedom; and with their growing knowledge their growth in self-government shall keep steady pace. When they have thus shown their capacity for real freedom by their power of self-government, then, and not till then, will be possible to decide whether they are to exist independently of us or be knit to us by ties of common friendship and interest. When that day will come it is not in human wisdom now to foretell. As that we can say with certainty is that it would be put back an immeasurable distance if we should yield to the counsels of unmanly weakness and turn loose the islands, to see our victorious foes butcher with revolting cruelty our betrayed friends, and shed the blood of the most humane, the most enlightened, the most peaceful, the wisest, and the best of their own number—for these are the classes who have already learned to welcome our rule.

Nor, while fully acknowledging our duties to others, need we forget our duties to others, need we forget our duty to our own country. The Pacific seaboard is as much to us as the Atlantic; we grow in power and prosperity so our interests will grow in that farthest west which is the immediate east. The shadow of our destiny has already reached to the shores of Asia. The might of our people already looms large against the world's horizon; and it will loom ever larger as the years go by. No statesman has a right to neglect the interests of our people in the Pacific; interests which are important to all of our people but which are of most importance to those of our people who have built populous and thriving states on the western slope of our continent.

This should no more be a party question than a war for the Union should have been a party question. At this moment the man in highest office in the Philippine Islands is the vice-governor, General Luke Wright, of Tennessee, who gallantly wore the gray in the civil war and who is now working hand in hand with the head of our army in the Philippines, Adna Chaffee, who in civil war gallantly wore the blue. Those two, and the men under them, from the north and from the south, in civil life and in military life, as teachers as administrators, as soldiers, are laboring mightily for us who live at home. Here and there black sheep are to be found among them; but taken as a whole they represent as high a standard of public service as this country has ever seen. They are doing a great work for civilization, a great work for the honor and interest of this nation and above all for the welfare of the inhabitants of the Philippine Islands. All honor to them; and shame, thrice shame, to us if we fail to uphold their hands!

THE HEROIC DEAD.

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the purpose that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The great men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.—LINCOLN.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The patriotic sentiment that clusters about the observance of Memorial Day, will continue long after the last veteran has crossed the line that divides the future from the present. More than a third of a century has passed since these observances were inaugurated and while the keen edge of personal sorrow is no longer felt, because a vast army of the mourners have gone home and for those that remain, time has wrought a hallowed memory; yet the day is full of significance and the nation does well to turn aside for an hour and pay reverence to the memory of our patriotic dead.

The history connected with this day and all that it means to the generation whose knowledge is confined to history, is the darkest chapter recorded in the annals of the nation. The tragedy of Martinique is appalling and touches public sympathy, but it fades into insignificance, as compared with the tragedy of the civil war.

While there was no abrupt explosion to engulf a single city, and blot it out of existence in a moment of time, there was a feeling of dread uncertainty that enveloped the land from north to south for three long years, and every now and then as the curtain lifted the field of carnage was revealed and in thousands of homes, scattered over the land, the messenger of death brought tidings of sorrow and desolation.

There was time to bury the dead, and from the field of Gettysburg to the lonely grave in the village churchyard, the nation joined in mourning her common dead.

The contending armies, representing the best blood of both north and south, fought for principles which they regarded sacred. It was a nation's quarrel, but none the less bitter, and when Lee surrendered the life of the nation was preserved. The great sacrifice is beyond the ken of human comprehension, and while today the history reads like a romance, it was intensely real when it transpired.

The ranks of the veterans are being rapidly depleted. A few years more and the last survivor will have joined the column of the great majority, and the duty that they perform today will be delegated to other hands. While they are with us, they are entitled to marked respect, for they are the representative fragment of the great army of patriotic men who offered life for country, at a time when the nation was in dire distress.

It was a great honor then to be a soldier of the union. It is a sacred privilege today to join the scattered ranks and pay a tribute of loving regard to the memory of the nation's dead.

WHITEHEAD ENDORSED.

We commend the wise and conservative course of John M. Whitehead in the state senate, and acknowledge his efficient, patriotic services and unquestioned devotion to the interests of his constituents and the state. We are proud that Rock county has been asked to provide a candidate for governor. We recommend Mr. Whitehead for the gubernatorial nomination at the next republican state convention, and pledge to him the support of the Republicans of Rock county. We further declare our purpose to stand by our nominee to the end, and hereby tender him our unqualified confidence and support.

In this language the republicans of Rock county refuted the allegations of LaFollette and his adherents and endorsed Senator John M. Whitehead as the gubernatorial candidate. The action of Mr. Whitehead's home county is of great importance.

When a man is popular at home, when he is looked up to by men who know him personally, then and only then is he fully and entirely worthy of general support. Mr. Whitehead is now the real leader of the conservative republicans of Wisconsin, and there is little doubt but he will be nominated at the state convention, and elected next fall by the voters at the polls. He will make a governor who will be an honor to the state and a credit to its people. This result has been achieved by unusual circumstances. The republicans of Wisconsin elected a man in 1900 as governor, whom it was expected would continue to conform to republican principles. He had been known as a "reformer" and had been only a half hearted republican in several campaigns when he had been defeated in his aspirations, but it was generally believed that if elected he would become more conservative and less erratic. The reverse proved true. The history of Robert M. LaFollette's administration is known to every voter. He has been tried and found wanting. It is certain that his renomination would mean republican defeat. Even the disaffection to him is wide spread in truth, the distrust of Mr. LaFollette is almost universal. He could not be elected if nominated.

Recognizing this fact the Republicans of Wisconsin demand that another man shall be nominated. There are many good men, and true Republicans to select from, but the most prominent is the name of John M. Whitehead, of Janesville. He has been long and favorably known in the State Senate, where he was a leader. His character is above reproach. His ability is of an exceptional high order. He has a wonderful grasp on the vital questions of the day and has the power to be able to tear aside the tissue of falsehood that so often obscures their true importance, and to disclose their true value.

The voters of Wisconsin can accept Mr. Whitehead as a political leader, without fear of the result. He is honest, broad and liberal minded. There is no bigotry in him. He will make a governor that will not be a dictator, but a conservator for the people's rights and an executor of the people's will.—Marquette Eagle.

The organs of the governor and especially the one in Milwaukee, are whining about the policy adopted in the Rock county convention, ignoring the fact that their own supporters had been bragging for a month about what they were going to do. The only thing that prevented, after enlisting the aid of all the disreputable democrats in the county, was strength to carry out this plan.

Three men from the town of LaPrairie voted in one of the city caucuses. They were rushed in with a lot of saloon bums by the governor's henchmen. They were shown a list of over 200 democrats, who were willing to go on record in defiance of law. The governor should be proud of his Rock county support.

The LaFollette forces at Glenwood refused to endorse Senator Spooner. If there has been any doubt about who the Senator's friends are, it is rapidly being dispelled. The success of the governor, means political death to the Senator.

The First district delegation from Edgerton, served notice on the Milton delegation, that they wouldn't "get a smell" in the convention. They didn't need it when they had the whole bakery.

One of the governor's shouters in Janesville said to a republican the other day before the caucus, "If you knew what I know, you would go way back and sit down," and afterward, there was a great calm.

An effort is being made to smirch the reputation of Warden McClaughey, but it will fail, as his worst enemies admit that he was a faithful official.

The town of Center managed to muster 22 LaFollette voters, what happened to the other 55 that so much has been said about.

The men who aspire to county office, will do well to make a few observations on the state of the atmosphere.

The city of Evansville has always been republican and it will redeem itself at the first opportunity.

Ezra Goodrich issued a little LaFollette circular at Milton. It appeared to be quite effective.

Democracy will not be so largely in evidence when the next republican caucuses are held.

The town of Union gave a LaFollette majority of three, and they were democrats.

The boys came down to fight and went home to consider.

LaFolletteism is doomed in Rock.

PRESS COMMENT.

Appleton Post: In all but two of the counties where conventions have been held to elect delegates to congressional district conventions, where insate politics was an issue, Gov. LaFollette has come out second best. Thus the indications are that he will fare in the same way at the hands of the state convention called to nominate his successors and other state officers. Thus Mr. LaFollette will go the way of all hollow-thought party leaders.

Evening Wisconsin: Warden McClaughey's resignation takes from Waupun prison one of the most efficient men who has ever had charge of that institution. His statements of reasons for retiring is an arraignment of methods that ought to be abandoned by the state board of control. No warden can maintain discipline in his prison unless he can command the respect and obedience of his subordinates.

Beloit Free Press: There are those who believe that the university gymnasium at Madison is a sacred building that must not be desecrated by being used for political purposes. Judging from much that has occurred the past ten years in a political way why single out the gymnasium building of all the university buildings.

Racine Journal: The First District Republicans have done well. They have endorsed strong as words can express the candidacy of John M. Whitehead for governor of this great state; have endorsed John C. Spooner for re-election as senator and unanimously nominated Hon. H. A. Cooper for congress to serve his sixth term.

If the Stalwart leaders expect to catch the Half-breeds asleep at the next republican convention they will be disappointed. The governor has had the convention called at Madison where accommodations in the sleep line are cut out.—Chilton Times.

When Madison has located all of its proposed sleeping tents, and filled all of its hotels and students' boarding houses, it might resort to the book principle, and swing tired delegates on their coat collars, among the trees of Capitol park, or resort to hammocks.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Green Bay Gazette: The result in Rock County is believed to be a great disappointment to the partisans of the governor. They asserted that they could carry the county over Whitehead. They made an earnest effort thereto, and failed.

Milwaukee Journal: As bearing in the Rock County convention, it will be remembered that in 1888 the Hoard men had one majority in the Sauk county convention, and insisted on naming all the delegates who were afterwards admitted to the state convention.

YOUNG MEN TO BE WELL ENTERTAINED

The entire building will be devoted to the entertainment of the young men, different attractions being provided for each room. The building has been handsomely decorated; light refreshments will be served and every young man in the city will be cordially welcomed. A large attendance is expected.

OLDSMOBILES worth $1,000 ARE SELLING AT $680.00

It may be interesting to know why the Olds Motor Works can put out a machine worth $1,000 for $650. A visit to any one of the three Olds Motor plants will easily demonstrate why they are able to do this. They are building not a few, but thousands, and are therefore contented with a small margin on each machine. Their facilities are unequalled anywhere in the world; smaller manufacturers cannot afford such facilities, and consequently purchasers of machines made by them must pay the extra cost of fitting and trying each piece or part by hand, instead of having each part a perfect standard, a result which enables the Olds company to produce the best at a close price. Nor do they ask their customers to pay $150 extra for advertising; their machines themselves being their best and most efficient advertisements.

NATION'S HEROES HONORED TODAY

IMPRESSIVE MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD TODAY.

Graves of the Heroic Dead Decorated by the Grand Army of the Republic and the Woman's Relief Corps—Exercises at the Park—
Rev. Tippet's Address.

This is the day of muffled drums lowered flags and saddened hearts, —a day when a nation stands in sorrow before the tomb of her heroic dead, acknowledging her debt to the men to whom she owes her preservation and forgetting not to pay tribute to the rapidly thinning ranks of the living heroes as she drops tears and scatters flowers over their graves of those who rest in the dreamless sleep of death.
Each year the mounds in the silent cities grow more numerous as the comrades in this grand army of the republic have ever known are mustered out of earthly service and pass onward to join the great majority. Each year the forms of the survivors of the war of the rebellion grow more bowed, the hair becomes more silvered, the step more feeble and hesitating. Yet with the passing years the sanctity of Memorial day is enshrined deeper in the hearts of these old veterans and so long as there lives a man who was once a boy in blue the nation's noble day will be reverently observed. When the veterans have all heard the final taps, then, and not till then the obligation will be transferred to the shoulders of a younger generation. This year Memorial day dawned bright and clear, the beauty of the weather adding immeasurably to the impressive observance of the day. Almost before daylight, private carriages laden with flowers began the journey to the cemetaries and loving hands laid fragrant blossoms on the graves of dear ones gone before. Many a soldier's grave received these tributes of personal affection and remembrance but following the friends and relatives who decorated only the graves of their own departed there came a band of boys in blue and of loyal women, who saw that not a single grave over which floated the stars and stripes was left unadorned.

The decoration of the graves occurred this morning. Members of W. H. Sargent Post, No. 20, G. A. R., and W. H. Sargent Woman's Relief Corps, No. 21, met at the Post hall at 8:30 o'clock and rode to the cemeteries where the beautiful ritualistic service of the Grand Army of the Republic was read. The impressive service was conducted by J. L. Bear, commander of the Post, and A. Burnham, chaplain; and at the close of the G. A. R. service the Woman's Relief Corps took charge and paid an exquisite tribute to the fallen heroes.
The services at the cemetaries closed with a salute of three volleys by a firing squad under command of L. H.
Lee, officer of the day, and the sounding of taps by Curtis Carpenter, bugler for the G. A. R.

Salute Fired

The salute was fired, and taps were sounded both in Oak Hill, and Mount Olivet cemetaries, the bugle call being an especially beautiful part of the ceremony. Immediately afterward the graves in both cemetaries were decorated under the direction of the superintendents, guides and assistants appointed for each of the divisions by the G. A. R. and W. R. C.

Public Services

The public services were held this afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, the parade moving from High street down West Milwaukee street and South Main street to the Court House park. In the parade were the Janesville Fire police, W. H. Sargent Post, with John Kruse as color bearer; W. H. Sargent Woman's Relief Corps, No. 21, and the speakers in the carriages, civic societies and the fire department. The music for the parade was the inspiring martial music of the fife and drum, played by the G. A. R. fife and drum corps.

Meeting Well Attended

A large audience of people was gathered at the Court House park, to enjoy the exercises which were among the best ever held in this city on a similar occasion. S. C.
Burnham officiated as president of the day and the eloquent opening prayer was offered by Rev. J. F. Henderson, pastor of the Presbyterian church.
The vocal music on the program was exceptionally fine, being furnished by a male quartette, consisting of Dr. F. F. Richards, E. E. Van Pool, H. E. Carey and A. Crawford. The selections which they sang were all new ones, having been procured for this special occasion. During the program, the quartette sang "Our program, the quartette: "Banner of Glory," "They Sleep in Their Country's Blue," and "The Roll Call on High."

Short Talks

The remarks by the president of the day, S. C. Burnham, were brief, but decisively to the point, material for much reflection being contained in the few terse sentences, which he offered. Mr. Burnham referred to the fact that this is the day on which homage is paid to worth, not position the grave of the unknown private being as sacred as the tomb of the commanding general. He emphasized the fact that soon others must take the responsibility of the day's observance and he believed that Memorial day is safe in the care of coming generations, because the prosperity of this nation requires fidelity to the principles of equal rights and justice for which the Union soldier fought. He trusted none of those present would ever be called to defend the flag on the field of battle, but they must remember that days of peace may be filled with noble deeds as well as times of war. He closed with the hope that time may add to, rather than take from, the glory and sacredness of Memorial day and that its influence may lift the nation into higher and better lives.

Lincoln's Address

Mrs. Janet B. Day, whom it is always a pleasure to hear, read Lincoln's address at Gettysburg, the impassioned and undying words gathering new beauty and meaning for the hearers from the impressive manner in which Mrs. Day rendered the selection.

The Memorial Address

Rev. J. H. Tippet, pastor of the Court Street M. E. church and the orator of the day, was next introduced. His address was given in his usual masterly and logical style and the beauty of the sentiment expressed and forcefulness of the thoughts presented were made the more effective by his excellent delivery. He spoke earnestly and eloquently and in a new channel of thought from that usually followed on such occasions.
In his introduction he referred briefly to the fact that the nation has come to a great day in the history of the world and of the republic. Reference was made to the advance in industrial, educational and political conditions. While those present have their faces toward the future they are met, together, to look backward. They are the sons of the past and the fathers of the future and it is this contingency that gives vitality to history. The men of the silent past exercise a strange fascination over the true cosmopolitan.

Why We Observe The Day

Among the reasons given for the observance of Memorial day, Rev.
Tippet mentioned the value of the lives of the heroes of the past as an influence for good on the character of the youth of the present. Tribute was paid to Abraham Lincoln, Grant, Sherman, Meade, Reynolds, Thomas Logan and the unknown who sleep under a thousand nameless mounds.
If other motives to memory were wanting, the sons and daughters of that great generation should remember that they were carried to the happy valleys of peace and prosperity on stalwart shoulders and in heroic arms.

Value To Young People

Rev. Tippet then emphasized the chief value of the day as a school of instruction in patriotism. He urged the parents to tell them the wonderful history of the war, with its outbursts of patriotism, its spirit of sacrifice and of heartfelt, tender sympathy; of the final day when the wings of angels of peace came;
of the 300,000 who never came back; of the tragedy of those deaths in battle, in camp or prison and on the march. The children should be taught that these men died for all the generations yet to be, died for the preservation of the union that all men might be free—free to labor, love, think, hope and worship; that they fought to redeem the republic and make it forever and forever God's first and best representative of liberty and law and order upon the earth.
Continuing Rev. Tippet said in part:

"This day shall be to us a reminder of the notable days and great deeds. But the greatest significance in this Memorial day is the good that comes to ourselves. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did there."

Duty of the Living

"It is for us, the living, to be dedicated to the unselfish work and to pledge performance of the duties of men and citizens. It means that we shall reaffirm the principles for which they so nobly fought and died.
It means a re-dedication to the constitution and a solemn pledge to maintain the rights, privileges and immunities of our citizenship as they maintained them who made their dead bodies a wall of defence about this union."

Plea For a Pure Ballot

"First: Let us dedicate ourselves to a pure ballot. Let us do our part to make widespread the conviction that the crowning fact, the kindest act of freedom is the freeman's vote." In our day of ignorance and indifference and corruption are doing all they can to defeat the will of the people at the ballot box. To counteract this opposition three traits ought to distinguish every voter—intelligence, independence and conscience. We want that kind of intelligence at the ballot box that will not only enable the voter to read his ballot but to understand and appreciate the principles. We want an independence that will say: "This wide world has not wealth to buy the power of my right hand." We want that kind of conscience in the voter that says: "This vote is cast in the fear of God and for its integrity I answer at my country's altar."

Support the Common Schools

"Let us dedicate ourselves, secondly, to the maintenance of the common school. I wish to say to you three things: first, we ought to have taught in our schools the English language and only the English language.
"We are an English speaking people. The Declaration of Independence and our national constitution were both written in the English language. The ballot which is put into the hands of the young man when he has come to his majority is printed in the English language.
The language of the declaration and of the constitution and ballot ought to be the language and the only language of the common school."

"Of course I say nothing against the teaching of other languages in the schools for higher education. Nor do I say anything against the man who wants his child taught the French language, but I would have that child educated at private expense or sent to the common schools of France where floats the tri-color.
"Any square foot of soil under our flag is too precious to give place to any other flag which means allegiance to another government, of another language or to principals out of harmony with our institutions."

Let there be one flag, one language in the common schools.

"The second thing I wish to say is this: let there be one common school fund, under one management to be used for the great system of schools. Such a common school has been one of the great Americanizing influences in all of our national history. Children of all nations sitting, side by side in one school room to learn their A, B, C's, by the assimilating influences of such an institution have come to be among our best citizens. Long may man drink hearty to the toast: The Common Schools—Hope of Our Country."

Preserve the American Sabbath.

"Let us in the third place dedicate ourselves to the American Sabbath and its associated moral sentiment. The tallest white angel on earth today is the Christian Sabbath. I pledge you to the whole fundamental constitution of modern civilization—the Sabbath, the decal-ogue and the sorm on the mount.
What is it that the great crowd of souls above us must long to hear?
Is it the whir of the factory wheel wearing out the lives of men and women and the jangling of the dollars in the marts of trade? My own conviction is that they rejoice more in the happy hearts that reverently keep a holy day to the God of Nations."

"When I pledge you to the Sabbath, I pledge you to the God for whose plans these boys in blue died; I pledge you, to warfare on everything that would destroy its rest and reverent keeping."

The Saloon is a Curse

"I cannot condemn the greatest enemy of the American Sabbath, the saloon, with the calmness befitting this occasion. The liquor traffic is condemned before the judgment tribunal of the race. It is the curse malignant. It is the enemy of morality and liberty. It will keep no law and shrinks at no outrage upon public virtue."

"Down in New York harbor we have put up the statue of liberty enlightening the world. There today in the May surge she rears her sublime head. Let us see that that shield is stainless and that there shall come no blood spots upon it that shall prevent it from flashing back the sun of God. Let the home be less here and inviolable refuge but never let an alien Sabbath or the protected demon of rum hide in its shadow and shoot darts of death at our brothers in freedom's prostituted name."

Tribute To The Flag

"Again I pledge you to the flag—the banner of justice, the banner of purity, the banner of the brave. It is the three colored banner of liberty. It is the banner of liberty, not the liberty of license, but the liberty of law; the banner of a liberty that is fearlessly faithful to grapple with corruption and that dares to accuse the sinner of crime. We want no weeds to grow in our institutions fit only for the inferno."

"Let us not confuse liberty with license and anarchy. Let not one star of principle fall from the azure field of our country's flag. Keep this four-fold vow: Let us on this Memorial day, softened and exalted by the tender prompt memories which it brings to us, newly resolve that each shall do his full duty as a citizen; that the law shall have our obedience; that every right of man shall have our respect; that justice shall have our homage; and that liberty in none of its phases shall suffer diminution of evasion while in our keeping."

Honor For The Living

"Comrades of the Grand Army—I salute you. The nation crowns you with fadeless laurels. We have a blood bought country here. 25,000 of your comrades who fought for it—a whole army corps—were gathered to the silent galleries of the immor-tals last year. A short quarter of a century from now but here and there a man will linger to tell the story of the past. But as long as the nation stands and recollection remains to men the memory of your great names and great deeds shall never perish from the earth."

After the benedictory prayer by the Rev. J. T. Henderson, the great audience dispersed to the inspiring martial music of the fife and drum.

"THE CHAPERONS" GIVE A GREAT SHOW

One of the Best Productions on the Stage Gave Local Theatre-Goers a Rare Treat.

One of the best productions ever witnessed in this city kept a critical audience convulsed with laughter or thundering with applause at the Myers Grand last evening, when Frank L. Perley's clever musical travesty, "The Caperna" literally took the house by storm.

The excellent company made a hit simultaneously with the first chorus and, from that time until the final curtain fell there was not a dull moment. Even after the curtain fell, the audience was reluctant to depart but lingered while the company behind the curtain sang, "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot?" in honor of the fact that it was the closing night of the dramatic season proper for the company and for the local theater.

The production was packed so full of good things that discrimination means injustice. Yet it would be impossible to pass over, without special mention, such finished artists as Trixie Friganza, whose captivating stage presence, expressive face, low, well-modulated voice and quiet style, give her work a distinctive character which is charming; Harry Connor, whose quiet comedy work is irresistibly funny and clever; Eva Tangany, whose unique work as the girl detective as well as her singing of "My Sambo" and her wonderful dancing, make her the favorite of the company with the audience; Nellie Pol-la, who is sweetly demure and be-witchingly pretty; Walter Jones and Edd Redway, imitable in their eccentric comedy work, and Joseph C.
Miron, whose bass voice was heard at its best in the brigand chorus.

The choruses were all fine. The male chorus being of such unusual excellence that encore after encore was demanded. The production was handsomely staged and richly costumed.

CAUGHT THE MOUSE.

And Thereby Won the Respect of His Girl Employees.

How Manager Maynard Was Saved from a Cabal of Feminine Trick-ery and Filtration Just in the Nick of Time.

When the firm decided to put young Maynard at the head of the mail-order department it was in the full knowledge that the change was an experiment. Maynard had proved a capable man wherever he had been placed in the great house, but this special department had always been under the ear of grave, elderly, much-married men. Maynard was young, good-looking enough for romantic girls to dream over, and unmarried. When it is further added that his department included about 200 young women of varying degrees of beauty and sense, it will be seen that the firm had acted wisely in the past.

For two or three weeks, says the Chicago Daily News, he ran the gauntlet from eight o'clock in the morning until five o'clock at night. It was a gauntlet of languishing glances, flirtatious smiles, unending giggles and a steady stream of questions purporting to be strictly on business, but which were in the main silly enough to earn for the questioners their walking papers at the end of the week. At the end of two weeks he realized that he had utterly failed to establish the proper attitude between himself as head and the 200 young women making up the department. They regarded him plainly in the light of lawful prey, managerially, and matrimonially. They had no respect whatever for his position as manager or as bachelor and they seemed to be acting as with one mind to remove both conditions.

On the third Monday he opened his desk with a sense of distaste and shrinking that he had never felt before. He acknowledged gushing good mornings crustily and had the satisfaction of hearing suppressed giggles in return. He sat immersed in business to his ears and refused to hear inconsequential remarks addressed coquettishly to him as usual after mail came up to get or deposit papers and files. Yet when the twenty-fifth girl had made her little speech, which whatever it might be, called for no answer, young Maynard realized that he was up against a cabal of feminine tricksters. In disgust he began to write out his resignation.

Suddenly from the center of the great room there rose a babel of voices, mingled with shrill screams. Two seconds more, and the whole roomful of girls were on chairs and desks, with skirts whirling about variously formed ankles. Yet there was no coquetry on the part of any one. Slim-ankled and thick-ankled girls had but one thought—the mouse that even then was scurrying away straight for the manager's desk.

Across the suddenly cleared floor space he watched it come. Just as it darted past the corner of his desk Maynard bent low and with a crafty curve of the hand just nipped the slim gray tail as its terrified owner slipped beneath the desk. A gasp issued from 200 throats as he held the little beast aloft by the tail.

He picked up some papers and walked quickly over to one of the three young women who more than any others had caused his soul to despair.

"Miss Dunning," he said, shortly, "I want copies of these letters. Please descend as soon as possible and get to work on them."

Miss Dunning shrank visibly from the struggling mouse he held close to her, and for the first time failed to giggle at his words. Then Maynard walked nonchalantly through an arched lane of womankind, flung up a window, and deposited the mouse on the guttering that ran just below.

As Maynard walked back to his desk he was conscious of a new atmosphere in the room. There was no suppressed giggling, no unbearable self-consciousness. Every girl was at work. The manager had become in their eyes a superhuman being who was not to be trifled with.

Violins Made of Porcelain.
Porcelain violins and mandolins are coming into favor in Germany. They are said to be sweeter in tone than wooden instruments, and possess the further advantage of not being affected by the weather.

Where Sound Travels Far.
Very little wind prevails in the arctic regions, and this fact facilitates the transmission of sound. People there can converse when a mile apart. The cold and almost motionless air renders even a whisper quite distinct.

Tons and Tons.
I thought of the good old question that visitors used to ask the school when I was a boy.
"Which weighs more, a pound of feathers or a pound of lead?" said I.
"They weigh the same. A pound is a pound," said the children.
"Correct," said I. "Now, which weighs more, a ton of feathers or a ton of coal?"
"A ton of feathers," chorused they, showing that the innocent are not necessarily undiscerning.—Town Topics.

To-Morrow.
To-day is here and yesterday is gone.—To-morrow? Ah, who knows that it will dawn?
Why babble of to-morrow, anyway. For when it comes 'twill only be to-day.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A MATERIAL ASSUMPTION.

Nurse (who has been many hours on duty, to patient's mother)—When do you think I shall be able to go to bed?
Patient's Mother—Go to bed? I thought you were a trained nurse!—Punch.

CROWD TO HEAR SPOONER SPEAK

Blames Democrats for Delay in Passing the Philippine Measure.

STANDS BY ADMINISTRATION

Wisconsin Senator, Replying to Mr. Carmack of Tennessee, Praises Mr. Roosevelt's Action in Quitting Official Position to Fight for Cuba.

Washington, May 30.—The galleries of the Senate were crowded, and there was an unusually large attendance on the floor in anticipation of the speech by Mr. Spooner (Wis.), which is to close the general debate on the Philippine bill by the Republican side. Two other senators were heard—Morgan of Alabama, in favor of the measure, and Clay of Virginia, in opposition to it. Mr. Spooner's speech constituted principally a vigorous defense of the policy of the administration; and was aimed to refute the arguments of Senator Hoar. In his review of the situation in the islands he tried to make it clear that the responsibility for it rested not on any one party, but on all alike.

Mr. Spooner paid a brilliant tribute to President Roosevelt and to the personality and policy of the late President McKinley. He said:

"The people of the United States must be strangely impressed by the action of the Senate on the Philippine question. Weeks have been spent on an emergency tariff bill for the Philippines and generally to carry out a policy of a free government in the Philippines."

"It seems to me strange that this bill—a measure to exalt civil government in the islands and to subordinate the military power—should be delayed for weeks by speeches which tend to show that the operation of our military forces in the islands has been a disgrace and dishonor to the country. It is a strange debate to me. On both sides it has been notably able. But on the Democratic side there has been nothing but the gospel of despair, nothing but suspicion, distrust and imputation of the motives of those who differ from them."

Praises the President. Referring to the speech of Mr. Carmack (Tenn.), who had said of the President that his "natural gait was running away," Mr. Spooner said the intention of Mr. Carmack was to intimate that President Roosevelt was a man of impulse. "The President of the United States," he declared, "of all men whom I know, is one who does not run off from duty or danger. President Roosevelt left his place in the government to go to Cuba, where he offered his life in the midst of flying bullets for liberty—for the liberty of the people of Cuba. The President has won the right to be regarded as the steadfast and strenuous friend of liberty."

Discussing some references which had been made to previous speeches of his, Mr. Spooner said he had announced that he was not in favor of the permanent dominion of the United States over the Philippines, and he was not now. "I would not," he said, "buy dominion at the cost of any man's liberty. I said that our flag in Cuba would go down in honor, as it went up in the interest of liberty. And so it has. But that has nothing to do with this bill."

"The Filipinos were not withdrawn," interjected Mr. Spooner vehemently. "They were driven back."

Lauds the Army. Mr. Spooner insisted that there was no parallel to be drawn between the situation in Cuba and that in the Philippines. The Cubans had been fighting for independence for ten years, but no such struggle had occurred in the Philippines. Aguinaldo had proclaimed shortly after Admiral Dewey had entered Manila that he (Aguinaldo) had come to Manila to prevent the former insurgents from joining the Spaniards in an attack upon the American troops.

After quoting from one of President McKinley's messages, Mr. Spooner exclaimed: "Never in the annals of time—say what you will about the brutal policy of the administration—has there been carried by an army so much of amelioration, so much of upbuilding, so much reform, of kindness and tenderness, as were carried by this army of ours under the instructions of William McKinley. It was a destructive war, of course, but along with the destruction of war were the constructive forces of peace and humanity."

Mr. Spooner, who was indisposed, gave notice that he would conclude his argument Saturday.

CONFIRMS STORK RUMOR.

President Declines Invitations Owing to Anticipated Event.

Washington, May 30.—The social and official world of Washington is much interested to know that President Roosevelt has confirmed rumors concerning his household. Representative Slayden of Texas called on the president to invite him to San Antonio in October. The president thanked his visitor and said that he would gladly accept the invitation but could fix no definite date, because in October he anticipated a most important event in his household and did not wish to be away from Washington. Mrs. Roosevelt, with her four children, will leave on the Dolphin on June 8 for their home in Oyster Bay.

It had been her intention to return to Washington and remain until the adjournment of congress, but since her recent indisposition, it has been deemed unwise for her to make a second journey. The family will return to the capital the latter part of September. One of the plans not yet matured is for Mrs. Roosevelt and the children to spend the month of November at Deer Park for the benefit of the mountain air.

An equally interesting event is scheduled for about the same time in the household of the Japanese minister. Mr. and Mrs. Takahira and their three young children will spend the summer at Cape May, where the minister has engaged a cottage.

Democrats Choose Issues.

Washington, May 30.—The Democratic congressional executive committee held a meeting here and considered plans for making the trusts and the tariff leading issues in the coming campaign in the congressional districts. A committee of seven was appointed to consider and report on the matter. At the meeting of the full congressional committee, a resolution was adopted favoring the passage of the pending bill for the irrigation of the arid lands of the West, which devotes the proceeds of sales of public lands in the arid and semi-arid states and territories to the construction of storage and irrigation works, and reserves the lands so reclaimed for actual settlers and homo builders.
